MRS. BAUGH DIES; LEAVES BIG ESTATE

Friends of Family Await With Interest Terms of Will of Manufacturer's Widow

SON'S CONTESTS RECALLED

Mrs. Anna Wills Baugh, widow of Daniel Baugh, manufacturer and philanthropist, died yesterday at Stevens, Md. She inherited the bulk of her husband's $5,000,000 estate. Mr. Baugh, who died in February, 1921, was head of the firm of Baugh & Sons Co., fertilizer manufacturers. His will created two trust funds of $200,000 each for his sons, Edwin P. Baugh and Paul D. Baugh. The latter contested the will. The contest was finally withdrawn upon payment to young Baugh of $50,000 and the agreement of other beneficiaries to indemnify him against any and all liability for the support of his children, Daniel Baugh, 33, and Eleanor Baugh. Under the terms of her late husband's will, Mrs. Baugh was given the right to dispose of the income from her property for a period of twenty-one years after her death, and at the expiration of that time to dispose by will of the $5,000,000 estate.

TO FIX INDEPENDENTS' ANTHRACITE PRICES

State Fair Practices Body Will Decide Operators' Charges Today
Press at which independent operators may sell anthracite will be decided upon by the Fair Practices Committee this afternoon and forwarded to Chairman Aimey, of the Fuel Commission, for approval.
The Fair Practices Committee will meet in its offices of the Commercial Trust Building and consider data supplied by the independent operators before making recommendations.
Edward A. Eaton, chairman of the committee, said this afternoon numerous complaints have been received from consumers living in other States in which they say dealers are offering prices at the mines far in excess of that fixed by the Pennsylvania Fuel Commission, with the result that consumers in such States are compelled to pay higher prices.

FITZGERALD DENIES 'PULL' IN VICE RAID

Magistrate Defends His Action in Freeing Hundreds of Prisoners

ANSWERS MAYOR'S CRITICISM

Magistrate Fitzgerald today defended his action yesterday in discharging a majority of the two hundred prisoners rounded up by police in a series of vice raids.
Fitzgerald denied that lawyers' runners and ward politicians had interceded for the men and women and that "fixers" induced him to discharge most of the defendants arrested in the Eleventh and Twelfth streets station.
"I held every person named as the proprietor of a disorderly resort, but discharged those brought in as inmates or frontmen of the resorts," said the magistrate.
Denies Dictation
"It is not true that lawyers' runners and politicians formed a line back of my chair and told me how to dispose of the case. I saw no runners or politicians. Four of the men under arrest were charged with cornering and good election is approaching, and good elections should not be carried when local leaders can obtain the release of prisoners."
Almost the entire number caught in the police net had been released from custody on copies of the charge. Magistrates were summoned at all hours of the night to sign papers for the release of the prisoners.
Some Held in Jail
Of the 200 prisoners the following were held in $1000 bail:
Morris Green, Wood street near Eighth; William Hurst, Tenth street near Brown; William Huston, Tenth street near Brown; Samuel Cohen, Franklin street near Brown; Frank Franklin street near Brown; Frank Viets, Tenth street near Spring Garden; Herbert Cohen, Wood street near Eighth; Charles Schwartz, Franklin street near Callowhill; Louis Costello, Tenth street near Callowhill; Reuben Callen, Tenth street near Callowhill; Lewis Haber, Tenth street near Brown; John Frowel, Hutchinson street near Pearlrunners.
Rose Fleisher, Ninth street near Vine and Lena Allen, Franklin street near Callowhill, were held in $1500.

MAYOR ASKS PROBE OF CHARGES POLICE HELPED DRUGGING

Orders Director Cortelyou to "Sift to Bottom" Reports of Collusion

TEMPEST TO QUIZ EIGHT MEN BEFORE CALLING TRIAL

Dug Up Old Warrants Against Witnesses to Block Testimony, Say Rumors

Mayor Moore ordered Director of Public Safety Cortelyou today "to sift to the bottom" reports of police collusion with the drug ring in this city.
"If there is even a shred of evidence," order the men involved up for trial, the Mayor said.
Rumors of police interference with important witnesses in the crusade against drug dealers were laid before Mr. Moore last Friday by Judge Monaghan and District Attorney Rotan.
Eight men, connected with the detective bureau, the vice squad and the police districts, were named in the rumors. Director Cortelyou today turned the names of the men over to Assistant Director Tempest.
The names under investigation are that police dug up old warrants against some of the Commonwealth's witnesses in an effort to block the testimony.
Tempest to Quiz Men
Mr. Tempest stated today he will interrogate the eight men before he sends any names to the Civil Service Commission, the disciplinary body of the police and fire bureaus.
"To send the names up to the Civil Service Commission would put me in the position of bringing charges against the men," said Mr. Tempest. "I want witnesses and affidavits to back up the charges."
"If there is enough evidence produced against the men they should be dismissed and not transferred to some part of the city where they would be out of touch with drug peddlers."

Pilla Goes on Trial

Anthony Pilla was placed on trial today before Judge McDevitt on a charge of selling drugs. Frank Cattina also was listed for trial.
Mrs. Blanche Stewart, Mount Vernon street near Tenth, a Government informer, was the principal witness against Pilla. She testified the defendant approached her at Eighth and South streets and offered to sell one-half an ounce of a drug for $17.
The witness said Pilla met her by agreement later at Tenth and Spruce streets. He gave her a package of drugs and she gave him $17 in marked bills, she testified. Government agents saw the transaction and arrested Pilla.
The witness admitted under cross-examination that she is employed to "make cases" for the Government narcotic agents. She said she got $12 for each case and also received $1.50 each time she appeared as a witness.
Many drug cases are marked for trial before Judge McDevitt, this week on a bench warrant issued by Judge Felix Cardullo, alleged to be one of the biggest dealers in the city. Cardullo will be called Wednesday. He was arrested on a bench warrant issued by Judge Monaghan and held in $30,000 bail.

Politician Faces Trial

Tomorrow Joseph Allegro, a downtown politician, also known as "Joe Ritchie," will be brought to trial on charges of conspiracy in the vice raids and is awaiting sentence.
Friday, Frank Troccoli, said to be an employe of Al Wagner, a pugilist and fugitive from justice, will be tried as a dealer. He was arrested last week after, it is charged, he sold a quantity of drugs to Leon Schenk and Manuel Schenk, Negroes, who said they came from Washington to make the purchase. The Schenks cases will be tried the same day.
Lulu Webster, Hutchinson street near Green, a drug user for ten years, was sent to the House of Correction for one year. Benjamin Straub, Second street near South, also was sentenced to one year as a user and Joseph Gallagher was given fifteen months in the House of Correction.

SUPREME COURT ADVANCES TWO PENNA. COAL CASES

Hearings Pushed Ahead on Constitutionality of State Laws
Washington, Oct. 9.—(By A. P.)—The Supreme Court today ordered advanced for hearing on November 13 the case brought by Roland C. Heister to test the validity of the Pennsylvania law imposing a tax on anthracite coal.
The Court also advanced for hearing November 14 the case brought by the Pennsylvania Coal Company to test the constitutionality of the Pennsylvania State law known as the Kohler Act of 1921, which makes it a crime to cause the subsidence of surface structure by anthracite mining.
Dr. Emory R. Johnson, dean of the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, who has been mentioned as a likely member of the new Federal States Coal Fact-finding Commission, said last Wednesday for South American.
Two are for the United States Government, one for the United States Chamber of Commerce, and the fourth Second American Congress of Economic Expansion and Commercial Union at Rio de Janeiro, from October 12-20.

U. S. COAL BOARD PERSONNEL MADE UP OF SPECIALISTS

Formal Announcement From White House Is Expected Wednesday

EMORY R. JOHNSON ALSO MENTIONED FOR HONOR

By CLINTON W. GILBERT Staff Correspondent Evening Public Ledger Copyright, 1922, by Public Ledger Company

Washington, Oct. 9.—Raymond Robbins, it became known today, will be a member of the commission to investigate the coal industry provided for in the recent act of Congress. This commission will probably be announced by President Harding on Wednesday.
William Z. Ripley, professor of economics in Harvard University, has been strongly recommended for appointment to the commission by Secretary Hoover and it is expected that he also will be a member. Another probable member is Emory R. Johnson, dean of the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania.
Mr. Robbins was an active member of the Progressive Party and is an advocate of organized labor. He was considered by President Harding for the post of Secretary of Labor. He was commissioner of the Red Cross in Russia during the war and has been sympathetic with the Soviet Government there without, however, accepting its radical views on property.
He is himself a miner in his youth especially in Alaska. He will represent the more liberal views in the commission which it is understood will have no direct representatives of either the miners or the coal operators.
Prof. Ripley has been on transportation. For the last two years, he has been in the employ of the Interstate Commerce Commission as a special examiner in the consolidation of railroads. He made a report on the subject to the commission. During the war he was an administrator of labor standards in the War Department and in the United States Shipping Board, and he has experience in both the labor and the transportation problems which will come before the coal fact-finding commission. He was on the committee on transportation for the United States Industrial Commission in 1900-1901, and made a report for the United States Industrial Commission on the railroads' schedules and agreements in 1917.

Anderson Incensed Because They Would Not Back Prosecution of Men They Arrested

Refusal of two patrolmen to identify Max Coniskey and George Kramer, Fifth and De Laneys streets, charged with transporting liquor, which they were arrested before United States Commissioner Menley today, aroused the ire of Assistant United States District Attorney Anderson.
He declared that he would bring the matter to the attention of Director Cortelyou and try to learn the motives of the patrolmen.
The patrolmen concerned are Joseph Clapper and Frank Rabilly, of the Twentieth and Buttonwood streets station. The prisoners were arrested a month ago on complaint made by Clapper.
Clapper, in reporting the case originally, said, according to Attorney Anderson, that he saw Coniskey and Kramer drive a truck containing much to a stable at Seventeenth and Branch streets, where a still was in operation.
When called to the stand today he said he could not identify the defendants as the men concerned. Clapper said he was informed about the men by Patrolman Rabilly.
Rabilly declared he arrested the men when they were standing outside the stable, but could not identify them as the men who drove the truck.
Angered by the attitude of the patrolman, Mr. Anderson declared he would not allow them to "make a monkey out of the District Attorney's department."
He asked that the patrolmen be given opportunity to testify in court and requested that the prisoners be held.
Coniskey and Kramer were held on $500 bail for court.

MRS. E. SULLENDER DIES FROM OVERDOSE OF DRUGS

Former Phila. Woman Succumbs in Chicago Hospital—Inquest Planned
Mrs. Ella Sullender, formerly of Philadelphia, died yesterday at Columbus Hospital, Chicago, after taking an overdose of an anesthetic. The autopsy will be held at the Little Sisters of the Poor. She planned to return to her old home here after an absence of some years.
Mrs. Sullender was a sister-in-law of Representative George W. Edmunds of this city. Her husband is James Sullender, who was western representative of a Philadelphia manufacturing concern. He is believed to be living in Cuba.
Although the Chicago police say Mrs. Sullender's death was due to suicide, this is denied by J. W. Newman, her attorney.
Dr. Daniel A. Orth, attached to the hospital, said Mrs. Sullender was in a highly nervous condition and suffered from insomnia. He expressed the opinion she might have taken chloroform to induce sleep. Doubt that his sister-in-law committed suicide was also expressed by Representative Edmunds. He is arranging to have the body brought to this city for burial.
"Some time ago," said Mr. Edmunds, "Mrs. Sullender had pneumonia. Her illness, coupled with separation from her husband, preyed on her mind.
It is possible that a nurse may have placed anesethetic at her bedside to induce sleep and Mrs. Sullender, desiring to be sure that she would sleep well, took an overdose which caused death."
Mrs. Sullender was the daughter of a wealthy Philadelphia contractor.

FEDERAL ATTORNEY JUMPS ON COPS

Anderson Incensed Because They Would Not Back Prosecution of Men They Arrested

NO ROW OVER DRY SHIPS, SAY BRITISH

London, Oct. 9.—Prohibition of liquors on vessels within American waters will give rise to no international complications, according to the view expressed by British Foreign Office officials today.
The government's view, according to these authorities is that the matter is one in which the United States has a perfect right to take any action it sees fit.
Washington, Oct. 9.—The Daugherty decision barring liquor from American ships and from all ships within the three-mile limit will affect fifty United States ships and concern approximately 15,000 passengers weekly. It will reduce the revenue of the Shipping Board, but no one here will estimate to what extent.
It is not that which worries Chairman Lasker, but the fact that it is almost impossible to compete with foreign rivals in the shipping business with dry ships. He said yesterday that even immigrants who are used to their wines daily will avoid the vessels of the American merchant marine.
Mr. Lasker declared all foreign ships would find a way to evade the law as interpreted by Mr. Daugherty. He said it did not require an extraordinarily clever person to do so. Much liquor it would take for so many passengers from a foreign port to the three-mile point on the voyage to the United States. A supply ship, he added, can provide the home-ward-bound needs.
Incoming ships can carry liquor up to the three-mile limit. They will merely carry out domestic regulations into international relations.
"I am inclined to believe that foreign vessels will be easily able to evade the regulations. They will merely amount to this: they will create a new and gigantic international bootlegger who will be honored by all Powers. Incoming ships can carry liquor up to the three-mile limit. A first-class shipping man can tell how much each ship requires for a voyage. When the three-mile limit is reached there need not be more than a few gallons to be thrown overboard. So there is no hardship in that direction."
"So far as outgoing ships are concerned," said Mr. Lasker, "I am sure."

KILLED IN QUARREL

Fatal Shooting Follows Argument Over Victim's Wife
Ruth Leone, thirty years old, 711 Pierce street, died in the Mount Sinai Hospital early today from a pistol wound in the abdomen inflicted by Tom Tomosio, Twenty-first and Market streets, following an altercation at Seventh and Moore streets.
The argument, according to Leone's aunt-mortem statement to Magistrate Toughill, was the result of remarks made by Tomosio concerning Leone's wife. Tomosio became angered when Leone questioned a few sailors and drew a revolver fired five times at Leone. One bullet took effect.
Tomosio was captured by Bremen of Engine Company No. 19. Alvin Leone is being held as a material witness.

TURKS RESUME ADVANCE INTO NEUTRAL ZONE

By Associated Press
Constantinople, Oct. 9.—The Turkish Nationalist troops yesterday resumed their advance in the Dardanelles area in the direction of Chanak, the British stronghold, according to a Mudania dispatch to the local newspapers.
It was reported during the night that Turkish irregulars had appeared yesterday afternoon a short distance from Beikos, in the hills on the Asiatic side of the Bosphorus. Beikos is a suburb of Constantinople, eight miles above the American naval anchorage. The British are intrenching around Beikos.
Turkish irregulars and small bands of guerrillas and bandits, which frequently form the advance guard of a Turkish army, have appeared in small villages east of Constantinople. These villages include Taskisuyu, Tavshanjik, Omarli, Afga and Armudli, all within the suburban limits of Constantinople on the Asiatic side.
The British yesterday made final preparations for defense, blowing up bridges and crossroads.
A British destroyer anchored Sunday at Shihel, on the Black Sea coast. The commander went ashore, met the nationalist officer there and requested him to withdraw his forces. The Turk replied that he had orders to remain, whereupon the British commander declared he also would remain and keep to anchorage close in shore.
London, Oct. 9.—(By A. P.)—The British cabinet met today to consider the detailed report of Marquis Curzon, Foreign Secretary, on his conference in Paris with Premier Poincare, at which the position of the Allies on the Turkish question was again consolidated.
The Mudania conference is being resumed under the new instructions framed at the Paris meeting, and was approved with slight changes by the cabinet Saturday night and forwarded to Brigadier General Harrington.
The delegates were instructed to insist upon evacuation of the number of Turkish gendarmes to be allowed in Thrace, withdrawal of all Turkish troops from the neutral zones, and delay in the occupation of Thrace by the Turkish army until after the signing of a peace treaty.
Greek Army Recruitant
The situation continued to present disturbing possibilities today with the revolutionary Greek army at Adrianople declaring it would not retire even if ordered to do so by Athens, and with the victorious Turkish army concentrating at Bursa and Ismid, anxious to reach Constantinople and protect the Turks in Thrace. The uneasiness was increased by the fact that the allies are not generally considered to have sufficient armed forces to control either the Turks or the Greeks.
While the British are using the utmost patience to conclude peace, it is believed the Greeks and French have been warned that if a settlement is not reached by the present situation with respect to the neutral zone is that whatever zone is agreed upon be permanent neutral. In this connection Lord Curzon is believed to have informed Premier Poincare Friday that the British were not working to secure exclusive control of the straits; that they had too many undertakings already and would be satisfied with League of Nations, American or any participation.
